I am a commercial driver and use XM every day of my life. The instant weather and traffic channels they offer are very important to myself and probably all drivers that use XM. Not only are they informative at the instant you need it, but it makes me a safer driver because I'm informed about what I'm about to encounter. Be it heavy snows, winds, rain...or accidents, construction or just general traffic jams. To prevent XM from broadcasting these stations, would not only be wrong, but would also make a lot of drivers not as prepared for poor driving conditions and not as safe and alert as they are now because of them.
